To Whom It May Concern:

The Institute for Law and Policy Planning (ILPP) conducted a facility planning study for the Center for Independent Living (CIL), in early 1994. Prior to that point CIL had involved professors from UC Berkeley and various volunteers, a CIL building committee, and a paid consultant, to assess options and develop space and building concepts towards development of a new building.

Dr. Alan Kalmanoff and Ms. Pat Bradley from ILPP worked with our consumer-based organization and building committee and rapidly developed the range of options necessary to make us comfortable with the planning. They ultimately focused on a concept that we are now investigating for financing. Their work was responsive, of a high professional quality, and especially congruent with our consumer-based constituency and special needs. For these reasons, I would heartily recommend ILPP for any private or public agency seeking to develop a new building in a complex environment. Their space and facility planning work was excellent.

Sincerely,
