Dear Kal:

Now that I have written an official thank you, let me offer a personal thank you for not only the professional, competent manner in which you and all your staff completed the project, but for extending yourself to us as a friend.

There have been a few rare occasions, when I have met someone through the course of my work, where more than a professional relationship develops. Your openness, hospitality and enjoyment of life made it just plain fun to work with you.

Please greet your wife for me, give the baby a hug and read her a book. Next time I am in the neighborhood, I'll drop in to see how you're doing.

Best regards,

C. Brent Wallace
